CONGRESSIONAL CHAT.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS OF THE 46TH CONGRESS.

Communication From the Secretary in Relation to Deficiencies and Army and Navy Pensions—Full Report.

By Telegraph to the News.

SENATE.

WASHINTON, D. C. May 10,—President, protem, (Thurman) laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of Interior, stating his estimate of March 5th for deficiences for arrears and army and navy pensions have been found insufficient and transmitting increased estimate of same; several petitions in favor of Eatons tariff. Camsu presented among them one very numerously signed by New England manufactures in the offering of which Dowes called attention to a very large number of such petitions presented since the bill was favorably reported from the finance committee. He hoped the chairman of that committee would seek to call up the bill out of its regular order and to secure its passage. Demond was for justice to all interests and therefore for permanency. No class of legislation was asked for there was manifest impossibility in fully revising the tariff, in the committee of the whole of the Senate. Many fruitless attempts to thus harmonise and satisfy the numerous classes and interests bore out this statement and commission which could give the subject a full and deliberate consideration and would alone give satisfaction to manufacturing interests of our country, not now as formerly mainly confined to one section, but extending over the whole country. Bayard, chairman of the finance cammittee, said the committee had shown their opinion of merits of bill in the best way open to them, namely, by reporting it promptly with favorable recommendation. Last bill considered on the calendar was number 504, tariff bill was 510. It was well known how slowly business on the calendar was disposed of, and yet how much opposition was always made to taking up out its order bill that would evidently lead to debate. He personally would use every effort to get the bill considered. Platt believed there was wide spread demand for the tariff commission and that there was a disposition in the Senate to consider it at an early day. Bayard said if possible he would call the bill up in the morning hour to-morrow.

HOUSE.

Under a call of States a number of bills were introduced, among which are the following: By Frost, of Missouri, resolution calling on the Secretary of State for information as to whether any official notification or circular letter was addressed by the Department of State to foreign powers or to ministers and consular agents of the United States for presentation to foreign governments upon the occasion of the recent visit to foreign lands by General U. S. Grant or immediately prior thereto in relation to said visit, and if so its nature and character, and all correspondence relative thereto.

On motion of House, of Tennessee, a bill was passed requesting the President to open such negotiations with France, Austria and Italy as he may deem advisable with a view to removing the restrictions on importation of tobacco into these countries.

Wright, of Pennsylvania, offered a resolution declaring that after the 15th inst. sessions of the House shall begin at 11 o'clock. Adopted without objection.

A bill was passed dividing the State of Louisiana into two judicial districts. This is the bill originally introduced by King, of Louisiana.

McGowan, of Michigan, from Committee on Epidemic Diseases, reported back a joint resolution requesting the President to call an International Sanitary Conference to meet at Washington, D. C. Passed.

Stephens, of Georgia, chairman Committee on Coinage, reported a resolution requesting the director of the mint to cause to be struck off for the use of Senators and members an additional three hundred each of specimen "stella" Goloid dollar and the metric silver dollar, the same to be furnished only on payment of value of metal. Adopted.

Cabell, of Virginia, introduced a bill allowing tobacco manufacturers to import liquorice and liquorice paste in bond and exempting the same from duty. Referred.

Atkins, of Tennessee, chairman of Committee on Appropriations, reported the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. Ordered printed and recommitted. It recommends an appropriation of $16,120,931 as against $15-527,938 appropriated by bill of last year and as against an estimate of $16,692,920. The House then at 4:30 took a recess until 8 o'clock, the evening session to be for debate only.

Death From Fright.

MONTREAL, April 30—A singular fatality occurred at McDougall's Foundry this afternoon. A moulder named Convrette fell into a boiler full of molton iron, and his brother, working near by, went to his assistance, and both were probably fatally burned They were badly disfigured before they could be rescued, and presented a terrible spectacle as they were carried to the hospital. Mrs. Tourville was standing at her door and saw them pass. She was holding a child in her arms, and hastily handed it to a neighbor exclaimed: "Take my child! My eyes are turning yellow." She fell to the earth and was dead from fright in half an hour after ward.

Judge Lynch Executes another Raper.

LOUISVILLE, May 10.— A Hopkinsville dispatch says, on Friday a negro committed rape near Fairview, Todd county, upon Mrs. Geo. Salmon, who has been married 18 months. The negro struck her with a stick and left her, thinking she was dead. He soon returned and finding her somewhat recovered, he then cut her throat, from which she died. The negro was arrested but was taken from the guard, and shot several times, and was left hanging to a tree.

Rev. Woodside Suspended.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Rev. Newman Woodside is on trial for several days by the Northern Presbytery, which has been suspended. The specifications upon which he was tried by, are thirteen, and charges him with engaging in a Church riot, and willful violation of principles and of Presbyterianism. The verdict was a suspension, until he gave evidence of reform. He will appeal to the synod.

The Third-Term and the New York Legislature.

In the Senate Mr. Jacobs introduced a preamble and resolutions declaring that the teachings of the fathers of the Republic, with their holy fear of monarchs and thrones, have given existence to an unwritten law, which decrees that the same person shall not occupy the high office of President more than two terms, and that there are serious fears that one of the two great parties of the country contemplates a violation of that unwritten law; therefore

Resolved, That it is the sentiment of the Senate of the State of New York that this unwritten law, which has the sacred indorsement of Washington and Jefferson, and which has been recognized and obeyed by the illustrious line of Presidents who have succeeded them, should be retained in all its integrity, and that no person should be considered eligible for the office of President for a third time.

After some lively discussion the resolutions were tabled by a vote of 18 to 7.

They Delude Themselves.

Chicago Tribune.

Those who are trying to force the nomination for Grant, upon the theory that the people will swallow any dose that is put in the spoon, delude themselves.

Reasons for Nominating Grant.

New York Sun.

The only two reason now left for nominating Grant are named Conkling and Cameron—a weak foundation for a great party to stand upon.

Ohio Full of Statesmen.

Cincinnatti Gazette.

Ohio is a great state. The democrats are bothered with four available candidates, viz: Thurman, Jewett, Payne and Groesbeck. And Tilden thinks he can beat four more easilp than one.

A Pertinent Question.

Boston Globe.

Ex-Governor Rice reports that the republicans of Georgia and South Carolina want Grant as the candidates of their party. Well, what will they do for him if they get him?

Unjust and Stupid.

New York Sun.

The tariff as it stands is such a hodge podge of injustices and stupidities that even a partial revision by democratic revisers would be pretty sure to be an improvement, and to the popular as far as it might go.

Sherman's Sharp Practice.

Washington Republican.

As it now looks, if the present presidential primary canvass could only be prolonged for ten years, the whole national debt will be well-nigh paid off. April liquidated $12,000,000.

New York Obelisk.

A knoll in front of and to the southwest of the Metropolitan Museum, in Central Park, New York, has been selected as a suitable site for the Egyptian obelisk, and the department of parks has given its consent to the erection of the obelisk there.

Yes, we Know.

N. Y. World.

If the World were to say half as much as General Grant says about the peaceful and patriotic temper of the South, how the Grant people would execrate this disloyal and rebellious journal!

Mr. Kelly's Ravings Ineffectual.

Nashville Banner.

The chances are now that Mr. Tilden will be nominated in spite of Mr. Kelly and his threats. The logic of his position is too strong to be refuted by the ravings of a madman like Mr. Kelly.

Political Instructions Defined.

Harper's Weekly.

Instructions and the unit rule are evidences of a profound distrust of the popular will of the party. They attempt arbitrarily to prevent dissent and a true representation of the party opinion.

No Obstacle Now.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Col. Fred Grant having publicly declared in favor of his Pa for a third term, the last obstacle has been removed, and as Lord Nelson said at the Nile when told that Pat Flannagan was on board the ship, "now let the battle proceed."

West Point's Uses.

Buffalo Courier.

Mr. Maxey, of Texas, hits the nail on the head when he says that West Point turns out more officers than we have room or occupation for, and merely hinders the promotion of worthy soldiers from the ranks.

Can Neither Get off Nor Be Thrown off.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mr. Tilden is an idea, an issue, a quantum in American politics which cannot be ignored. He cannot be suppressed. He could not suppress himself. If he should publish a letter tomorrow positively interdicting the use of his name, it would not clarify or simplify the situation.

Grant in 1880.

Washington Post.

There are two reasons that rather eliminate the bottom from the proposition that Grant can carry in 1880 the States which he carried in 1872. At that time he was not on the third term hunt, nor had the record of his second term disgraced and shamed his countrymen.

Robbery of a Post Office.

Newton Enterprise.

The Post Office at Conver, this county, was broken open Wednesday night, and $21 worth of stamps and $40 in silver coin were taken. The Office is kept in a small building and the window was fastened by means of a book or catch. It seems that a hole was cut in the window shutter near the hook when the catch was easily unfastened and the shutters thrown open.

The Country Needs a Breathing Spell.

Philiadelphia Chronicle.

It is very noble of Senators, irrespective of party, to favor the adjournment of congress on June first. It will be still more admirable if the senate and the house shall agree to adjourn on that day and stick to it. The country ought to have a reasonable breathing spell between a session of congress and a presidential campaign.

The Same Old Farce.

Baltimore American.

The house ways and means committee are playing their old farce of tariff reforms. Item after item of an omnibus tariff bill is being adopted, placing salt woolens, cod liver oil, crude petroleum, paper, paper pulp and a dozen other things on the free list. After consideration of them all has been completed, members of the committee may pro forma vote to report the bill to the house, each one knowing that its passage by that body will be an utter impossibility. It doesn't make so much difference now, however, as it did two months ago, what Fernando Wood & Co. do or do not do. If the present programme of both parties of adjournment by June 1st is carried out, it is idle to expect any tariff remore legislation this session, even if separate bills are introduced.

THE PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

A BATCH OF LETTERS FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

Expressions From the People as to Their Choice for State Officers and Other Matters of Interest.

Letter from Granville.

MT. ENERGY, N. C. May 6.—Fine growing weather with crops flourishing. The fly has destroyed nearly all the tobacco plants in this section, and as fine tobacco is the principal market crop there is quite a wail among the planters.

Both political parties are donning their campaign paraphernalia and we may look for a stormy time. The Democracy will present a more solid front than ever at any time since ante bellum days,

As B. Gaines and Joseph Vinum were returning from the bend of Neuse with a runlet of crooked whiskey, the horse took fright and ran away, Gaines, Vinum, the horse and collar ultimately reached home.

What Glucose Is.

The subject of adulteration of sugars and syrups by the mixture of Glucose continues to attract attention. The New York Journal of Commerce, in a recent article, states that it has been at some pains to obtain from a reliable source the process of the manufacture in order to answer the many inquiries that have been asked concerning the adulteration. From its investigation we make the following summary:

Glucose syrup is produced from raw starch (chiefly Indian corn), mixed with water, and a solution of sulphuric acid and water added. The compound is boiled until the action of the acid converts the starchy particles into a sweetish syrup. Pulverized chalk, lime or some othsr alkaline substance is then added; the acid unites with this, forming sulphate of lime, and is thus deposited at the bottom of the vessel. The liquor is then drawn off, strained through bags and afterwards filtered through charcoal to abstract the coloring matter. It is then boiled to a syrup resembling honey without sweetening. This is mixed with ordinary sugar house syrup, and being lighter in color and improved in appearance, it brings in the market a higher price than the unadulterated article.

If "grape sugar" is required, all the water is boiled out of the starch, when a hard whitish substance is formed, and this is ground into powder. It somewhat resembles very dry nearly white cane sugar, but is not half as sweet. Three gallons of syrup, or thirty pounds of sugar can be made from one bushels of good Indian corn. In the manufacture of candy, most of the makers have substituted Glucose for sugar and do not mix the product of the cane in any of their preparations.

In respect to its healthfulness, the Journal of Commerce states, that but little examination will convince any unprejudged observer that as now made it is not a wholesome article of food. It procured some of the best samples of the syrup, and a drop leaves a sharp biting taste on the tongue, and if one rinse his mouth with a teaspoonful, he will not soon forget the experience. It urges the passage of laws compelled manufacturere to brand all articles adulterated with the word "Glucose," so that no one purchasing would be mistaken as to the character of the purchase.

Life of a Journalist.

Courier Journal.

The lot of the journalist, like that the policeman, "is not a happy one," it is his office, his duty, to say ungracious things. Especially in daily Journalism is this part of his vocation both intensified and multiplied in its operations; because he has to think and write upon the ever-revolving edges of current events—under the pressure of urgency catching a view here and a view there, and putting this and that together into a tolerably consistent raison d'etre. Technical consistency he cannot hope to attain. No man is so able, so astute, so ready, so poised and so sagacious as to catch the very phrase for the fleeting impression of the moment which to the outer seeming of wisdom and prudence, shall survive the wear and tear of time. All that the best man can hope to compass, all that the greatest ever aims, is spiritual consistency, born of true feeling—the inner light of self-conviction which doth shine afar—the wish, ill-put, perhaps, but still the wish, to do to the State some service. The journalist, being himself a veritable slave, and truly of the lamp, has but one genii beneath him, and that is his pen; and, if this pen could speak, it would utter of its poor master, and again and again, these famous and golden words:

"I've writ the foolish fancy of his brain,
The aimless jest that striking hath caused pain;
The idle ward that he'd wish back again.

"I've helped him to pen many a line for bread,
To joke with sorrow aching in his head,
And made men's laughter when his own heart bled.

"Day after day the labor's to be done,
And sure as comes the postman and the sun,
The indefatigable ink must run."

Fairbanks' Scales in Australia.

The Australian mail received this morning contains the following from the Sydney Evening Press, of March 17.

"The firm of Messrs. Fairbanks & Co., of New York and London, have taken all before them with their collective exhibits of scales. The Judges state that, in view of the many practical advantages which these scales possess over any and all exhibited, and as collective exhibits showing the perfection now arrived at by the inventive genius of one family they recommend a distinctive diplama or medal to that firm in addition to what would be simply a first-class award,"

At this Exposition, Fairbanks & Co., met in competition scale manufacturers from the United States Great Britain, and France, the testimonial received by them is an honor conferred on no other scale manufacturer.

The Aldermanic Bolt.

MR. EDITOR:—As a representative young democrat I desire you to insert this. A few days ago an article appeared in your columns signed "Quill" and addressed to our newly elected Aldermen on the subject of bolting the democratic caucus. Now I add, that if any of the Democrats on the board, do bolt and vote with the Republicans they will be spotted by the "boys," and after enjoying a few months power, the young men of the city will sink them politically beneath the mud sills of Rameat. And don't let them forget it.

Memorial Day.

As is our time-honored custom, yesterday, the 10th of May, was honored as Memorial day by the brave sons and fair daughters of this City of Oaks. The day was intensely warm, but the circumstance did not prohibit the dear ladies from participating; but, on the contrary, you could see their graceful forms flitting here and there-over every portion of the cemetary, tenderly depositing their flowery tokens upon the graves of the fallen boys in gray.

The spectacles was a beautiful one, and will long linger in the memories of those who witnessed it.

The procession, headed by Thompson's Silver Cornet Band, passed up Fayetteville street at 4 o'clock on the way to the biviouac of the dead.

The column was composed as follows;

Band.
Raleigh Light Infatry.
Rescue Company.
H. & L. Company.
Phoenix Company.
Orator & Chaplain carriage
Marshals.
Disabled Confederate Soldiers in Carriages.
Ex-Confederate soldiers on foot.
Citizens in carriages, and on foot.

After arriving at the Cemetary Col. Wharton J. Green, the orator of the occasion, delivered a most eloquet address, paying a noble tribute to the fallen ex-Confederates, and the surviving ones who so nobly struggled for the right.

Col. Green's address was listened to with marked attention, numerous and were the flatering remarks thereon.

A detachment of the Raleigh Light Artillery fired a salute, as did the Raleigh Light Infantry.

The column of ex-Confederate soldiers, on foot, was headed by Gen. W. R. Cox, and Gen. B. C. Manly.

After the decoration of graves the assemblage returned to the city.

The lack of space forbids our giving a synopsis of Col. Green's speech. All who heard it pronounced, it a masterly effort—and so say we.

Monument for the Drowned Young Men.

It is now pretty well determined by our citizens to erect a suitable monument over the bodies of Messrs McMillan and Crocker, the two young men who perished in their efforts to save a drowning lady companion. This is as it should be.

We understand that a committe of Good Templars will wait on our citizens during the week to solicit aid for the erection of the monument. We trust that the citizens will be in readt iness when the committee shall wai-upon them, and that they may contribute liberally to this noble object The News best wishes for the complete carrying out of the project.

Police Court.

When the Reporter entered the Mayors office yesterday there was no one in. He had looked over the docket and seeing there were no criminal cases set for the day, was about to leave when a young man, with a very large straw hat and a very short linen coat, who had the particulars of a very mean game to relate, entered.

"You be the Captin of the perlice, ain't you?—but pshaw I know you is, I hiv seen so many of 'em I kin tell 'em time I clap my peepers on 'em—every time. You see I'm up to snuff," he explained as he took a chair. "I know I took green and I live out here among the cows and owls, but the feller that picks me up fur a sardine is going to get bit, sure."

"Just so—I see," the Reporter replied. "Well I dropped into a saloon down the street here a while ago. I never imbibe myself, but it's proper to go into these places once in a while to let the boys know you are alive and up to clever. Well, thar was a fellow there."

"Is that so!" the Reporter gasped.

"Yes a great big lout of a feller who thought I smelt of turnip tops. He leaned aginst the counter and laid down a bit of cheese. I did the same. He planked down a dollar—I covered it. See?"

"Yes it's an old game. The piece that a fly first lights upon, the owner was to rake in the two dollars."

"Right! Well we sat there, and 'long came a fly and gee-hawed and—made for the ceiling. Then this feller laid down another dollar; I tumbled to it with a brand new piece, right straight. Four dollars up and more'n a hundred flies around. A lot of 'em lit aroun', smelt of both lumps and then flew away. Finally an old pioneer came along, with eyes full of preserved lightning.

He walloped down on the table with a thud, eyed both lumps for a minute to see which was the biggest, and then made for mine, with a mouth wide open and teeth all med. I had then four dollars square; but what do you 'spose that feller did?"

"Upset the table?"

"No he didn't. He jerked out an old army blunderbuss, about as long as your arm and shot all the hind legs off'n that fly quicker'n a wink, and then swore it was a fly he had been following for three years to get revenge on for his biting his daddy's bald head while the old man was asleep. Wasn't that a squeal though!"

"That feller is real unadulterated meanness, biled down. I don't want to have him sent to the penitentiary for life, this time; but I just wish you would kind'er pass him 'round with the box."

And the sharp young man from the country seized his hat and leaked out.

BILL ARP BILLIOUS.

HIS MANY TRIALS AND GREAT TRIBULATIONS.

Relates His Experience in Work About the Farm and House—Calculates He will Raise 120,000 Pounds of Watermelons.

The days are getting long, but somehow there is n't time enough to do what has to be done. I map out so much work for the day, and when night comes I haven't done it. I've got behind and can't catch up. That's bad. Ben Franklin said a man ought to drive his work and not let his work drive him. The wet weather has got us farmers all in a stew. There has n't been but two days in two weeks that we could plow. My corn is not all planted; my garden is in the grass; potato slips are waiting for the patch; the clover is nearly ready for the scythe. If it was only the big things that were pressing I could soon catch up, but there's so many little ones to mix in it takes about half the time to tend on em. I received orders the other day from headquarters to have all the pailings white-washed.

Then again the flowers have all to be taken out of the pit and benches fixed up for em, and so I had to go to the sa—mill for a few planks. The grape arbor had to be latticed and the vines tied up, so I had to go to the creek for canes. It was gently suggested that a large water-melon patch was a great necessity, and it took a whole day to prepare the ground and dig the holes and haul the fertlie, Cobe call it. Mr. Theodore Smith, related to Mrs. Arp, as how he pulled twenty-two melons from one vine, and the smallest one weighed eighteen pounds; and so I've planted 105 hills, which will make 200 vines and 4,620 melons weighing about 120,000 pounds. That's the hopeful way I figured it all up for her, but I've seen women who had more faith in her husband's works than she has. She was working a button-hole, and remarked, that if I raised fifty, she would be agreeably disappointed. In laying out work, these sort of jobs are never counted. Then again there's many an hour lost in waiting on the children, the little chaps. They are always hanging round for something. Everything I do they want to do. They have got little gardens and everything I plant they must plant. I have to tie up their big toes most every day and get splinters out of their fingers and pick em up when they fall down and be sorry a great deal and comfort em. They've got to wading in the spring branch and the maternal ancestor thinks a snake has bit em every time they holler. When they git out of sight she imagines some baby thief has come along and stole em like they did Charley Ross, and so I have to drop everything and hunt em up, but they are a world of pleasure, and it does look like the more I do for em the more I love em. They tag around after me most all the time and drive away the blues with their hope and trust and childish philosophy—their innocent unconcern about the future, about trouble and want and suffering, about politics and pestilence and miracles and suicides. I reckon that a good little child is about the best of all created things, and don't wonder that the Scriptures tell us we must be like em before we can get to heaven. I'm a right good family barber, and was shingling one of their little heads, today, when somebody came running in and hollered, 'The bees are swarming, come quick, ring a bell, they are going off.' I had been looking out for this every day for a week.

Last fall I bought five stands and came home and told my wife I had bought fifty thousand head of live stock, which would have made a sensation, but she didn't believe me, as usual, and went on with her sewing. Well, I had the hive all ready but the trouble was about getting them down from the tree, for they were about thirty feet up and hanging down from a swinging limb. I used to be a regular squirrel to climb trees, but somehow I've lost the ick and so my twelve-year-old boy undertook the perilous job. He tied a net over his head and went up like a cat, then tied the rope to the limb and threw the other end higher up over another limb and dropped it down to us and then we sent him up the saw and he cut off the limb and it came down easy and slow on the table and we sprinkled them with sweetened water and brushed them off to the mouth of the hive and just had no trouble at all hardly in getting them housed. Well I did get popped on the upper rim of my left ear, and in a few minutes it looked like the end of a cow's tongue and hurt like the mischief, but I made no sigh, I am always brave about a thing like that. When I was a boy I was the foremost man to attack a yaller jacket's nest with the other boys and we used to fight until the last armed foe expired and then retire from the field as friendly as conquering heroes after a bloody battle. Bees are a curious institution, a regular science. The common people don't know much about them yet and won't believe it when you tell 'em. Some of 'em admit that there is a king bee, but won't have it that he is a she and lays all the eggs. Some folks say the bee system of government is the Creator's type of what human governments ought to be, that is a hereditary kingdom. I reckon that idea would suit General Grant and Fred very well, but if we take it in part we must take it all together, and that would put Mrs. Grant in office surrounded by a few hundred lazy drones and leave the general and Freddy entirely out of business. You see, dame nature wouldn't trust a male with that much power, but would trust a female provided she had all the children herself, for a woman never goes back on her off-spring. General Grant may get him on a third term and run the concern into monarchy, but I can't see how a working bee can go for him, considering that when we tried him before he and his drones got all the honey. I'm tired of working for them sort of people, ain't you? YOURS,

BILL ARP.

DAILY NEWS

TUESDAY, MAY 11, 1880.

GEO. C JORDAN, Editor and Propr

JUDGE COOLEY, of Michigan, decided that Christmas-Day was a legal holiday.

IT appears that the Radicals would like real well to pull down Senator Vest.

THE Atlanta Constitution grows anxious about cadet Whitakers ears. It says: "It is now suspected that Whittaker's ears were clipped by the editor of the New York World, and that the extra appeared in the flopsom colum without credit. The files shoud be searched.

THE Philadelphia Record thinks the best way to beat the third term is to run Bayard against it. From the outlook last week it doesn't seem like the third term man is going to give anyone a chance to whip him. Things are looking decidedly Blaineish just now.

MR. WHITTAKER, the editor of the Levant Herald, has been sentenced to seventeen months' imprisonment by the Turkish authorities for issuing a number of his paper after the order for its suppression had gone forth. As Mr. Whitaker is a British subject it is not probable that he remain long in prison.

SOMEBODY IN GRANT'S interest seems to have played a rather smart game on the Wisconsin Republican Convention. It didn't look very promising for Grant and so delegates were secured for Washburn himself who is for Grant first, last and all the time, it is not very difficult to see what the little game in Wisconsin means.

AGAIN the rumor of the wholesale conversion of England to the Roman Catholic faith is revived. It is probable however, that the conversions do not exceed a dozen, most of whom have been received into the Church by cardinal Fewman at the new celebration Oratory at Brompton, near Birmingham.

WELL-INFORMED persons at St. Petersburg deem a war between China and Russia inevitable. The Lady President of the Red Cross Society has received instructions to prepare a large supply of lint bandages, which are probably intended to bind up the wounds of the Russian soldiers who may suffer at the hands of the Celestials.

THE New York World thinks all of the Republican candidates should be elected—to serve terms in the penitentiaries. It says: The Republicans are getting no more harmonious very fast. If only one-half of what the Sherman papers say of Blaue, and the Blaine papers say of Grant, and the Grant papers say of Blaine and Sherman is at all true all those distinguished Republicans should be candidates for at least three terms apiece in the penal institutions of the country.

IN TENNESEE the Republicans have resolved to present Horace Maynard as a candidate for Vice President. Every State will of course have a favorite son, but the Republicans of Tennessee, who are largely colored men, should not have everlooked the Bruce movement. The hundreds of thousands of colored voters have concluded that they ought to be alowed to name the Republican candidate for vice President, and the strength of this movement should not be brokon by the presentation of a lot of candidates who do not fairly represent the colored race.

THE present House of Representatives has seldom shown to better advantage than in its action of Friday on the Post Office appropiation bill. A powerful lobby, backed by some department officials who ought to be made to suffer for it, has been at work in the most shameless way in the interest of favored contractors, and the House has resisted this corrupt combination with a spirit that is as creditable as it is surprising, considering that the contractors made out a case which appealed strongly to the representatives of the sparsley-peopled Western wilds. Like all good things the Star route system is liable to abuse, and it has never been more grossly abused than under the present administration. It is to be hoped that the Senate will join the House in rebuking the Post Office Department, as represented by Mr. Brady, and sharing the profits of pampered contractors.

A REPORT to the Peabody board, made by a committee of which Chief Justice Waite and Secretary Evarts were members, both Republicans, after estimating the negro population in the United States to be now about five millions, and the colored vote seven hundred thousand, adds that "they are clothed with the right of suffrage, and yet, in the mass, are incapable of using it."

The current of this vote now runs all together towards Grant, while the white vote—Republican—tends to either Blaine or Sherman; and it will be the colored vote that will determine the selection of Grant, if he is chosen at all. This negro question comes home in more forms than one to plague its inventors. The ballot was put in the hands of the freedman to punish his old master; it was given to him to make perpetual Republican power. The effect has been to increase Southern power in Congress by giving an increased representrtion proportioned to the increase of voting population. It is far from certain that this vote is always secure to the Republican party, since there are many recent signs of wholesale restiveness under a suoserviency that begins to gail the pride of a race becoming conscious of its strength; but even if it were given to that party, it is surely apparent that it will be given to the man of the choice of the white man of the North. Neither Blaine or Sherman can look with satisfied or indulgent eye upon the power wielded by this new element once so easily moulded to their purposes; now practically dictating who shall fill the high places in the government, and making them the victims of their own plots for the enlargement of Republican power.

The Northern white Republican may be farther interested in the working out of the negro problem if it should turn out that the colored element succeeds in its purpose to have Bruce, a colored man, on the Presidential ticket. This is only carrying out the idea to its legitimate logical consequence. The negro has been told of the power he exerts in the politics in the country until he believes it, He was carefully taught by his white Northern instructors that he was the peer of the white man, competent to seek and to fill office. He has been taught his strength and his numbers; and being neither diffident nor backward it is fair to expect an assertion of what he has been taught to be his rights.

If it should come to this pass, Bruce will be as respectable in the Vice-Presidential chair as was Hannibal Hamlin, whom his old Southern opponents used to say was of negro blood; for the truth of which we cannot vouch, but for the suggestion of which our Northern Republican friends cannot charge us with indignity to the honorable Hamlin, because they cannot go back on the negro race.

IT DOES not appear probable that any tariff reform bill can pass during the present session of Congress which is expected to draw to a close about the first of June. Such a reform is opposed in all its branches by Pennsylvania and the New England States, who draw through the agency of existing tariffs the same superfluous aid and iniquitous support which New England for two generations obtained in the Fishing Bounties; a tax on all the rest of the country, that the business might always pay whether seasons were favorable or not. No industry in this country really needs the fostering aid of government. Manufacturies have long passed their infancy, and boast in very adult maturity. A business which is so well rooted, so prosperous and so skilful as to seriously endanger the former undisputed ascendancy of England, not only in the distant markets of the world, but at her very doors, and offers boastful competition with her own fabrics, surely has passed that stage of tender nurture needed to keep it alive. Certain articles of manufacture, once the exclusive product of Europe, have become so largely produced, and so faithfully made, as practically to exclude all further importation. This is the case with carpets, of which Philadelphia alone makes millions of yards; and yet they are still protected by a high tariff.

A tariff for revenue is the only one the enlightened spirit of this age should tolerate. Industries that cannot sustain themselves deserve to perish; certainly they ought not to exist at the expense of a consumer, who might be supplied, under liberal ideas of revenue, with far cheap articles of foreign production.

We trust Congress will take up the subject in time to perfect it at the next session of Congress.

Cuticura

REMEDIES

Have Achieved the most noted success of any Medicines of Modern Times.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter have never doubted the specific properties of Cuticura, Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Soap, for the speedy, permanent, and economical cure of Humors of the Blood, Skin and Scalp. They are however, astonished at their universal success; for it was to be expected that in the hands of some they would fail solely from spasmodic or ignorant use of them

They are enabled to say without fear of contradiction that no remedies ever achieved in the short space of one year the number of wonderful cures performed by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

SALT RHEUM,

Covering the Body for Ten Years. Permanently Cured.

LAW OFFICE OF CHAS. HOUGHTON,
17 Congress Street, Boston, Feb 28, 1878.

Messrs. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen,—I feel it a duty to inform you, and through you all who are interested to know the fact, that a most disagreeable and obstinate case Salt Rheum or Eczema, which has been under my personal observation from its first appearance to the present time,—about ten (10) years,—covering the greater portion of the patient's body, and limbs with its peculiar irritation and itching scab, and to which all the known methods of treating such disease have been applied without benefit, has completely disappeared, leaving a clean and healthy skin, under a few days of profuse application of CUTICURA.

I can and do heartily advise all similarly afflicted to try the remedy which has been so effectual in this case.

Very truly yours,
CHAS. HOUGHTON.

Liver Complaint.

And Dyspepsia Treated by the Resolvent, Gains 5 1-2 pounds on One Bottle.

GENTLEMEN,—I have had Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, with running sores on the side of my neck, for ten years. Doctors did no good. I have been spending for eight years and it did me no good. Everything I ate distressed me. I got reduced from 150 to 132 pounds. At last I tried the RESOLVENT and it helped me right off, and on one bottle I gained five and one-half pounds. It is doing the business, and I am going for it strong. Yours truly,

JOHN H. ROY
114 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., Nov. 15, 1878.

NOTE.—Cuticura is admirable assisted in cases of extreme physical weakness, or when the virus of Scrofula is known to lurk in the system, by the internal use of the Cuticura Resolvent, without doubt the most powerful blood purifier and liver stimulant in the world.

Cuticura Soap is an elegant toilet and medicinal assistant to Cuticura in the treatment of all external ailments. For chapped hands, rough skin and tan, sunburn, and the lesser skin troubles, it is indispensable; as a soap for the toilet, the nursery and bath it is the most elegant, refreshing, and healing before the public.

These great remedies succeed where all others heretofore in use fail because they possess new and original properties never before successfully combined in medicine.

The Cuticura Remedies are prepared by Weeks & Potter, Chemists and Druggists, Boston, and sold by all Druggists. Price of Cuticura, small boxes, 50 cents; large boxes, containing two and one-half times the quantity of small, $1. Resolvent, $1 per bottle. Cuticura Soap, 25 cents per cake; by mail, 30 cents; 3 cakes, 75 cents.

STARVATION IN IRELAND. No fear of that while we offer the present inducement. Agents can make $20 weekly, and it will be their own fault if they do not clear $50.

SIDE-WALK NOTES.

——The market is stocked with vegatables.

——May apples have put in appearance—rather sickly ones.

——The Carolina Rifle Club shoot off another match this afternoon.

——Sunday being a lovely day, the various churches were well attended.

——For the past few days, we have indeed had summer weather with a vengeance.

——The funeral of the late Henderson Poole was preached at Ebenezer church, this county, Sunday.

——Mr. Chas. H. Harper leaves today for Eufalia Alabama which place he will make his future home.

——Mrs. W. T. Adams, mother-in-law of C. B. Edwards Esq., is lieing quite ill at that gentleman's residence on Martin street.

——"Old Mr. Hirshmiller," a well known character about the city, left, with his family, for Washington, D. C last week, which place he will make his home for the future.

——The girl puzzle is the latest. It consists in putting an average girl in front of the ribbon counter of a dry goods store and having her find the particular shade she is after.

——Complaints are numerous that the ordiance prohibiting the cows running at large nights is not enforced at all. Is this to be another dead letter upon the city statute book?

——Parties who have relatives buried in the "City" cemetery complain of the wholesale destruction wrought by night prowling goats and other animals.

——Turpentine may not compare with colonge for scent, but one of our tar heels made $32.000 clear profit on the stuff last year, and now he wants folks to stick up their noses over that.

—— See that you contribute something in furtherance of the noble object of erecting a monument over the two young men who lost their lives last week in their efforts to save a fellow-creture, when this committee waits on you this week.

——Edenton street Methodist Sunday School picnic at Littleton to-morrow. A large crowd is expected to be on hand. The annual pic-nics of this school are of a most delightful character and the participants greatly enjoy themselves thereat.

——"Don't that negro remind you of a white man?" inquired one citizen of another yesterday, as a short stumpy, five and a half foot darkey passed by. "Gracious, no! Why he's about as full blooded a negro as you are likely to see nowadays.

"O, he is not a tall black," responded first citizen with a grin.

——A very useful, as well as ornamental arrangement has been perfected in the corrider of the postoffice. A handsome walnut desk with glass show cards and clock has been placed there by Mr. Van Arsdale of Rockester, N. Y., who makes a business of getting up such things.

——The police force to serve the following six months will be chosen by the Board of Aldermen at their meeting this evening. The two prominent candidates for the position of Chief, are J. W. Lee, the present incumbent, and Charles D. Heartt., Esq. The candidates for patrolmen are "too numerous to mention,"

——While the wind was blowing yesterday and the dust being scattered in every direction, a certain deacon was leisurely making his way down Fayetteville street. The wind suddenly tipped his hat off at the post office and deacon made a noble chase after it 'till he reached the Yarboro; there he braced himself against a tree and called to a young man who was sitting in front of the hotel. The young man approached him when the deacon said: "My friend, I'm a deacon of the church, and it is very wrong for me to swear, will you, therefore, d——n that hat for me, please?" The young man was of an obliging disposition.

Married.

At the residence of D. C. Marshburns in Marks Creek township, this county, by J. W. Smith, J. P., Mr. W. H. Nowell to Miss Alice Scarboro.

I. O. G. T.

Regular meeting of Hickman Lodge No. 1. I. O. G. T. to-night. Business of great importance to be transacted. Every member is earnestly requested to be present.

What!

The Winston Repuplican says: "Raleigh has seventeen licensed saloons." Where did you get that item? There are twice that number on Wilmington street alone. Brother Goslen, if you will multiply that seventeen by five you will be nearer "the facts of the case." Raleigh is considerably larger than you imagine.

'Twas Thar.

An inquisitive "smart aleck," dropped in on us again yesterday and after boring every one in the office for an hour and a half at last concluded to leave, and begun making the "preliminary arrangrments" by asking: "Is the clock right, over there?" The "devil" entered about that time and replied: 'Yes right over there, 'taint no where else." He left, then.

Sad.

It is painful to the Reporter to record the fact that Mr. James Stark, a most estimable young man of this city, has been deprived of his voice.

Yesterday at the Confederate Cemetary he had an attack of asthma and last night was unable to speak above a whisper. We sincerely hope the affliction is only temporary.

Something Queer.

The Democratic caucus of the Board of Aldermen were to have held a meeting at the Mayor's office last night; but owing to the absence of certain members of the board, no quorom was present. The meeting was postponed until this morning at ten o'clock, when every Democratic member is expected to be on hand.

Miss Painter the Revivalist.

This Quaker lady revivalist well known in Raleigh from having conducted a series of meetings in the Person street Methodist Church of this city about a year ago, has been conducting meetings in different parts of the State ever since.

The Newton Enterprise says: Miss Painter, the Quaker revivalist, has been conducting a series of meetings at Hickory. A tremendous crowd was out to hear her last Sunday night. We understand that she will be in this place some time soon, probably about the 5th Sabbath in this month.

Free to School Teachers.

One of the handsomest catalogues ever issued by any business house in the South is Mess. Alfred Williams & Co's "General Catalogue of school Books &c." One hundred and fifty pages, beautifully printed and bond in neat "Japanese style" comprise the book. Every teacher in the State can procure a copy free by writing for it.

Trap Hill Institute Commencement.

The receipt of an invitation to attend the commencement exercises of Trap Hill Institute which takes place on May 21st at Trap Hill, N. C., is hereby acknowledged. Mr. J. P. Cheatwood is Chief Marshal of the occasion, with the following assistants: W. S. Thompson, J. A. J. Bargass, J. N. Smith, G. W. Andrews. Managers. Miss Rosa A. Brooks, Allegany Co., N. C. Miss Mollie Spicer, Trap Hill, N. C. Miss Roxie S. Billings, Dockery, N. C. Miss Charlotte H. Bryan, Alleghany, Co., N. C.

Felt Flat.

A couple of Raleigh swains a night or two since repaired to a residence in this city to visit their fair Dulcinas, who were sisters. The parlor appearing rather warm they adjourned to the porch and talked sweet nonsense for sometime, when the young ladies went in the house to look up something. When they returned they found both of the young men fast asleep on the steps. They concluded not to wake them, but locking the door retired. About four o'clock in the morning they were awakened by a "cop" and after explaining things, took their departure feeling as flat as diluted dish-water.

Did'nt take much Stock in Feathers.

A recently arrived foreigner lately stopped at one of our hotels, and at the supper table began to play fearful havoc with a plate of hard-boiled eggs, scooping out the yolk and leaving the white untouched. Just as he was devouring the tenth one, the waiter remonstrated with him, calling his attention to his wastefulness.

"Goot gracious! man," he replied, "you vould not hav me ate ten vites vould you? De yolk is der shicken and der vites der tedders. Do you tinks I vants ter make von great bolster of mine pelly!"

Tourgee in Colorado.

Judge Tourgee, formerly of this city, now of Denver Col., has got to delivering lectures also, out there. He is the editor of the Times.

The N. Y. Tribune says: Judge Tourgée, the author of "The Fool's Errand," exhibited at Boulder the other evening a degree of kindliness and good humor calculated to make him a saint. He went to the town by request to give gratuitously a lecture for the benefit of one of its public institutions; and owing to some failure in committee work or the non-existence of any committee on lights and stage furniture, he was obliged to undertake to read his MS. from the top of any empty potash box, by the light of a single kerosene hand-lamp borrowed at the nearest shop. The Judge kept his temper, but finding it impossible to read his MS. by that light, he abandoned it, and delighted his large audience by an eloquent impromptu speech.

Mitchells Steam Boiler Works.

Mr. R. N. Mitchell proprietor of these works is an experienced workman, well qualified to execute first-class work, having served his time as apprentice in the largest boiler works establishment in the United States; for five years he was foreman in charge of large shops in Vermont, and has been in this city, for six years. During this time he has executed various jobs in the State, Insane asylum, penitentiary, Chatham county; put up a one hundred horse power boiler for W. T. Blackwell & Co. of Durham, and is now making another for them of sixty horse power; made seven boilers last year for W. F. Kornegay & Co of Goldsboro' and is now completing six others for the same firm. He supplies many tobacco sprinklers for barns, and is to-day shipping ten of these to J. C. Hendley, Knap of Reeds. He employs a large number of hands, to meet the increasing demand for boilers, and has orders on hand to employ him for three months. He has the most improved modern machinery and is prepared to do all kinds of black-smith work, and makes a speciality of repairing steam boilers.

A Farm of Brickbats.

"A party of Northern settlers arrived in a certain county of our good old State a number of years ago," said a gentleman whom the Reporter had accosted for an item, "and all purchased farms and made splendid crops the first year—except one. This fellow failed; his corn only grew to be knee high and other things flourished in proportion. When they were enquiring about the farms before purchasing, this man would not listen to the representations of the people living in the neighborhood—'he knew what land was, he did,' and so he buys a tract of his own selection. He knew it was good land; and besides, hadn't the former owner said that for cultivating some things it had not a rival in the country? Certainly he did! Well, the fellow was very much exasperated when he found that only he of the whole party had made a failure, and that too when he would have staked his life that he would make more than the 'hul kit' of the others.

He hunted up the man who sold him the farm, when the following conversation ensued:

"See here, mister!" said the Yankee, "didn't you tell me that was a good farm?"

"No, sir," replied the man.

"Why, sir, you told me that for some purposes it had not its equal in the county. Don't you remember that!"

"Oh, yes, and that's so. You see, partner, you 'peared to be a kinder 'smart Aleck' and I thought I'd let you go your own way. I had a better farm not far from there that I would have sold you for the same money, but you didn't seem to like it, and—and it was you, my friend, who said this was a good farm—not me."

"Well, I suppose you meant that its equal was not to be found for making bad crops."

"No, that wasn't it."

"Then pray in what is it unequalled?"

"Why that farm, man, makes the best—ah, bricks anywhere round here," And the countryman grinned a smile of satisfaction at having gotten the best of the Yankee in this sally.

"The Yankee," continued our informant, "began to study about the matter. Now the facts were, that soil would make bricks—yes, sir, a very superior brick, too, as the yankee soon found out. Well, the sequel to the whole thing is that in two years the yankee had made enough from the sale of bricks off that farm to buy ten just like it and is to-day the richest man of that party of settlers, all of whom are well off.

Good at Hugging.

A young man somewhat numerous in social circles, went out one night last week to visit a house at which he was a regular visitor. At the repeated solicitations of his sister, a little wee Miss, she was permitted to accompany him.

The little girl appeared quite at home and exhibited an especial fondness for one of the young ladies of the family, hugging her heartily.

"How very affectionate she is," said the lady of the house.

"Yes; just like her brother," responded the young lady unthinkingly.

Paterfamilias looked up sternly over his spectacles; the young man blushed and there was consternation in the family circle.

When the young man got ready to leave, the old gentleman accompanied him to the door. We are not prepared to vouch for what passed there, suffice it to say—that young man does'nt visit there any more.

King's Mountain Centenial Orator

The executive committee of the Kings Mauntain Centennial Association have elected Major John W. Daniel of Virginia to deliver the address at the celebration.

The Monument to be erected, is to cost $5,000.00 and is to be surmounted by the figure of a soldier, standing with one foot on a rock, in the act of loading a rifle—the old flint and-steel kind—the left hand firmly grasped around the barrel, while the right is elevated above his head and holds the ramrod which has been pushed about half way down the darrel. The costume is that of the pioneer, with a belt from which hangs a knife. The body is slightly bent forward, and the face wears a look of eager expectation mingled with an expression of a fixed and determined purpose.

New Business Structures.

In a day or two Messrs. Parker & Avera will begin the erection of a handsome brick building on the South East corner of Martin and Wilmington streets. The building is to be three stories in height; 26 feet in breadth and 120 feet long. It will be used by these gentlemen in their business as Cotton and Commission Merchants, and will be an ornament to that part of the business portion of our city.

Just below this, on Martin street, the mammoth livery stable of Mr. McMackin, now in process of construction, is rapidly approaching completion and Martin street from Salisbury to Moore square will then be a strictly business thoroughfare.

Mr. D. B. Avera has, also, purchased the building on the North West corner of Martin and Wilmington streets, formerly occupied by Cheatham & Bro., and will remodel the same.
